

were treated in accordance with the validated method of analysis and concentration of rhein was determined using HPLC analysis with fluorescent detector. The results were analyzed statistically which indicated insignificant change in diacerein bioavailability. We have reached a conclusion that diacerein metabolic pathway is not affected by glucosamine due to absence of metabolism via cytochrome P450 pathway in diacerein.

.....

.....