

research used bacitracin concentrations currently used in insulin studies and demonstrated that the degradation of insulin in normal and diabetic isolated hepatocytes was inhibited by bacitracin.